People and employment: the two protagonists of Salini Impregilo's Christmas event

December 21, 2018 - CEO Pietro Salini and the Group's Management reunited the Group's people for the traditional season's greeting before the holidays. 14 headquarter sites and worksites were connected from 4 different continents, highlighting our international, global trait, which characterizes our Group.

The words that most dominated the evening were people, safety and growth. The event was attended by people both from the Salini Impregilo headquarters in Milan and Rome, from Fisia Italimpianti in Genoa, and from Lane in Cheshire, Connecticut, in the US. But also by the teams in 12 project sites in Europe, in the Americas, Asia and Oceania, with many interventions and Seasons Greetings messages provided in many languages.

CEO Pietro Salini's words guided the event, narrating the Group's results for 2018 and the targets and ambitions for 2019.

"The value of new orders, for the first nine months, was excellent, with a general consolidation of the advanced markets" said Pietro Salini to the audience during the evening.

Despite the Group's presence being a more international one, a very important space was given to Italy, especially following the news regarding the awarding of the contract for building the bridge on the Polcevera river in Genoa. "We are very pleased to work in Italy again, as we firmly believe that the "Italy System" can recover. Last week we received the news telling us that works on the Terzo Valico dei Giovi project will continue. We have always put great effort, and will continue to do so, in guaranteeing that ongoing projects can be completed and that people working in our worksites can have the certainty of having a job. The commitment placed upon us in rebuilding Genoa's Bridge, besides helping to relaunch the city of Genoa, is also a symbol of a new development phase for our country. It shows that even in Italy you can build large strategic projects in a short time, increasing the GDP, while creating more jobs."

But the real protagonists of the evening were the men and women of Salini Impregilo. "Our people are what makes us strong. Their capacity to accomplish, to make great ideas become a reality through their talent and constant efforts; their passion, experience, professional competence; their awareness that diversity and respect for people, communities and the environment where we work, enriches us" underlined Pietro Salini, in his opening speech.

"Safety must be our first thought of the day, our priority. We cannot play around with Safety. Everyone has the right to a safe job capable of guaranteeing a life lived serenely" concluded the CEO, reminding everyone that the Group's priority when it comes to Safety at work, and the numerous training and promotional initiatives for spreading this new Safety culture, which was launched in 2018, from the Group's Valyou project, and shared with many worksites globally, to turn everyone into a Safety Builder.
